Grantee Communications Media Kit

Congratulations on receiving a Reading Frederick Douglass Together grant from Mass Humanities! The following guidelines are intended to help you publicize your program. If you have any questions, please contact your Mass Humanities program officer.

SPREADING THE WORD:

We appreciate grantees like you spreading the word about your grant through social media, newsletters, or whatever outlets best connect you to your community. Here are some talking points to use as you share this message. If you'd like additional information, you can find it on the Mass Humanities' Reading Frederick Douglass Together page.

“The Reading Frederick Douglass Together grant program offers up to $2,000 support public readings and discussions in Massachusetts of Frederick Douglass's famous Fourth of July address, "What to the Slave is the Fourth of July?" A group of people take turns reading parts of the speech until they have completed it. Readings can take place anywhere, from virtual spaces to community centers to historical societies and town greens.”

ENLIST OTHERS TO HELP YOU:

Ask anyone who might be involved or interested, anyone who might benefit from the event or series, or even a local reporter or radio personality. The questions and suggestions provided below are for any community, but you and your colleagues know your territory, so be imaginative: What works in your community?

START EARLY:

News releases to newspapers, announcements for newsletters, newspaper community service announcements, and radio and TV public service announcements all need to be sent at least a month ahead of time. Check schedules and desired formats with area papers, radio and TV stations, and community web calendars. Additionally, if you’re organizing a discussion series, publicity during the series is important; without it, participation will dwindle.
DON'T UNDERESTIMATE YOUR POTENTIAL AUDIENCE:
People often will travel a fair distance for a desired discussion event or series. A good rule is to consider communities and people within a 45-minute travel distance when thinking about the following questions and suggestions.

[YOUR ORGANIZATION] RECEIVES GRANT FROM MASS HUMANITIES FOR READING FREDERICK DOUGLASS TOGETHER EVENT

(City, MA–DATE) – [Your Organization] is pleased to announce it has received a $XXX Reading Frederick Douglass Together grant from Mass Humanities with funding made possible by the Mass Cultural Council.

The life and works of Frederick Douglass continue to shape our understanding of America. A gifted orator and prescient writer, Douglass forces us to reckon with the legacy of slavery and the promises of democracy.

Each year, Mass Humanities organizes and funds free public events where communities gather together to read and talk about Frederick Douglass's influential address, “What to the Slave is the Fourth of July?”
These funds to [Your Organization] will support a free public reading of Douglass’ famed speech on [date, time, location of reading and any other information such as special guest readers, special events surrounding the reading, etc.]

(Insert short quote from your president, executive director or board chair about the impact this grant will have on the organization and its project)
